- The instructor took time out of his day to critique my papers and push my knowledge and understanding to the best of my abilities. I appreciated the encouraging criticism and the care toward the students.
- Dr. Pearson is an excellent professor. He wants the best for his students, challenging us in many different ways. Responsible Self is a very tough class, but I enjoyed taking the class from Dr. Pearson.
- This is by far the most difficult class I have ever participated in.
- Dr. Pearson is a good teacher. I felt like I truly learned to think critically in his class.
- I do not think that having everyone going around saying what they found interesting in the assigned reading was not very beneficial. I left not knowing what was actually important in the text or what the author truly believed. It made writing papers more challenging because we didn't have a clear understanding. More lecturing and less discussion would have provided a clearer understanding of the course material. However, Dr. Pearson was a great teacher and challenged us to figure out what we truly believe and then learn how to articulate it.
- I really like this teacher... and hope that he will continue to teach at Jewell so that I can take more courses with him. Great job overall... he challenged me to a higher writing and thinking standard.
- Dr. Pearson is a great professor. He obviously cares about students' success and is willing to consult with students on how to improve their writing, thinking, etc. He has high expectations. He has a more than basic understanding in many areas and especially so in his own area of expertise. I wanted to take a course with him next semester but was unable to due to schedule conflicts with courses in my major. I feel that I have learned a lot of valuable and important information from this course, not only about the concepts discussed but about my own strengths and weaknesses and abilities, etc.
